

Available from...
JAC Publishing & Promotions

ORDER NOW!

by calling
781-272-2066

online at www.jacpub.com

or by mail; just complete the below form and mail it, with your payment, to:
P.O. Box 88, Burlington, MA 01803

---

Name

---

Address

---

City, State Zip

---

Credit Card Number

---

Name on Card & Expiration Date

# of Copies Requested

$3 S&H on single script orders.
For multiple copies, call for total with shipping.

ISBN #1-60513-071-0; JAC #2010-0012

The proceedings in this play are inspired by actual events. London, 1854, has been stricken with an outbreak of Cholera. Dr. John Snow is on the forefront of discovering how the disease spread and how its victims are treated, but convincing others of the validity of his theory turns out to be a formidable challenge. The other men, Farr, Chadwick, Father White, Rogers and Hall, offer counter arguments that reflect the common prejudices of the time, but Snow finally wins them over. After Snow's friend, Mary, is stricken with the disease, it is decided to dismantle the Broad Street pump, from which Snow believes the cholera is spreading—but it is too late. The disease must run its course, and nothing can stop it. Innocent people must die as a sacrifice to their destiny before the truth about Cholera can be ascertained.

Cast: 8 men / 2 women